

INFORMATION ABOUT THE AUTHORS

David E. Toohy is a Visiting Assistant Professor at Aichi University and a researcher at the Aichi University Institute for International Affairs in Nogaya, Japan. His research areas include environmental politics, immigration, and media. He is the author of a book entitled Borderlands Media: Cinema and Literature as Opposition to the Oppression of Immigrants (2012). He has published in Asian Cultural Studies, Review of Policy Research.

Claus Kold is a sociologist, working as a senior researcher at DIGNITY Institute. In the period 1997 – 2004, he worked in the Danish Military Academy, in the section for development of leadership and organization. His research interests are peace operations and the military's role in postconflict settings. He focuses on the behavior of soldiers, and how the task influences the organizational culture as well as operational attitudes. Dr. Kold has published many articles on the above topics in such journals as International Peacekeeping, Security Studies, Contemporary Military Challenges, Res Militaris, www.resmilitaris.net. His books include Krigen er slut – konflikterne fortsætter, [War is Over – the Conflicts Continue] (2006) and En modstander – som skal hjælpes, [An Enemy - to be Helped] (2004).

Meirav Mishali-Ram is a lecturer in the Department of Political Studies at Bar-Ilan University and in the Lauder School of Government, Diplomacy and Strategy at the Interdisciplinary Center (IDC) Herzliya, Israel. She is an author of several journal articles in international relations, most recently on the conflicts in Afghanistan and Pakistan. Current main interests: non-state actors, ethnic conflict, regional studies and civil war, applied in worldwide conflicts, mainly in South Asia.

Marco Pinfari has served as Assistant Professor of International Relations at the American University in Cairo, Egypt, after receiving his Ph.D. from London School of Economics. His work focuses on the comparative analysis of peace negotiations and on the role of regional organizations in conflict resolution, with particular emphasis on the Middle East and Arab Africa. He has published papers in the Journal of Conflict Resolution and a new book entitled Peace Negotiations and Time: Deadline Diplomacy in Territorial Disputes.